

Bio for Jonathan Gordon

Housing Program Coordinator | Homeownership Center
Community Development Long Island

Jonathan Gordon is a dedicated Housing Program Coordinator with extensive experience developing, implementing, and managing housing initiatives that support low-moderate income individuals, families, and vulnerable populations. With a strong background in case management, community outreach, and housing policy, Jonathan works to bridge the gap between housing resources and those who need them most.

In his current role, Jonathan oversees housing assistance programs, manages relationships with realtors and lender partners, ensures regulatory compliance, and leads data tracking efforts to evaluate program outcomes. Jonathan works closely with government agencies, and nonprofit partners to build sustainable housing solutions and promote long-term stability for program participants.

Driven by a deep commitment to housing equity and social justice, Jonathan brings compassion, organization, and strategic thinking to every aspect of his work. He holds a Bachelor's degree in Business Finance from Dowling College and has received training in trauma-informed care, fair housing laws, and HUD compliance.
