The Jones Beach Energy & Nature Center is like walking through a living lab where form, function, sustainability, landscape, and storytelling intersect beautifully. It's one thing to design net-zero buildings on paper—but here, you see embodied energy made tangible, ecological strategies laid out in the dunes, and climate resilience woven into timbers.