Leadership Greater Enid

CLASS XXXII

Debbie Moore

Hometown: Enid, Oklahoma

Family: My husband Dennis and I have 4 adult children, 9 grandkids, and 1 spoiled puppy.

Occupation/Profession: I am the Talent Attraction & Operations Director for Enid Regional Development Alliance, Enid's economic development organization. I work with businesses that have hiring needs, manage our job board, support the Executive Director, and manage the operations of the office. I love my job! Currently Debbie is acting as Interim Director as well.

What is the best piece of advice you have ever received? "Count your blessings, name them one by one!" I often feel a nudge to "start counting" when I begin to grumble or complain. If I'm replaying a bad day in my head or feeling affected by a rude comment, counting my blessings often causes a mind-shift to what really matters and what brings me joy!

What qualities do you look for in a leader? I look for a leader that has integrity, communicates well, and pushes others towards personal successes. I appreciate the character of a leader who recognizes the person holding the ladder for someone else to climb is a leader too; a servant-leader and a trustworthy part of any team.

If you had to delete all but 3 apps from your smartphone, which ones do you keep? If I could only have 3 apps they would be Facebook, Stride Bank and Chick-fil-A. With these specific apps I could stay up-to-date with friends and family on Facebook, watch where my money is going from Stride Bank noting it often is being spent using the Chick-fil-A app.

Favorite thing about Enid? My favorite thing about Enid is the small town feeling (friendly, safe and easy to navigate) with some of the big city amenities (boutiques, museums, sport venues and dining options).
