International students must show proof that they are able to fund their education before they are issued a visa to come to the US. Once they are here, wars and conflict at home can disrupt their financial situation because either businesses at their home country close due to war, exceptional changes in the value of their currency limit the value of their money, is and/or access to funds from their home country is limited. This fund will help students who are caught up in this situation cover tuition costs and living expenses.
