Defining Citizenship:
Strategies for Teaching Civics with Primary Sources

Saturday, April 8 — 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. — Shelby County Schools Teaching and Learning Academy

Civics is interwoven within all of our U.S. History courses and U.S Government and is central to a good social studies education. This workshop will center on activities that demonstrate how to use primary sources, including required primary source readings from the current state social studies standards, to teach and discuss civics in the classroom. Learn where to find supporting materials from the Library of Congress and the Teaching with Primary Sources – MTSU websites.

Open to Social Studies teachers in grades 4, 5, 8, U.S. History, U.S. Government, Librarians, and English/Language Arts
