The Joint Commission

Update to the Evidence of Standards Compliance

Effective the evening of May 20, 2024, The Joint Commission has updated the Evidence of Standards Compliance (ESC) form. The update includes a new component to be addressed in the correcting non-compliance section. The newly added component requires that additional information be added to an ESC response if the analysis of the survey finding identifies additional factors impacting patient care. The response will need to include what was identified, what actions were taken to correct the issue and whether follow up with affected patients was needed and what that follow up consisted of.
