UCC Webinar: Strategies That Meet the Moment

During a time in which we are witnessing an unprecedented assault on climate and environmental justice programs at the federal level of government, what strategies and tactics make the most sense for those seeking climate justice? In wrestling with such questions, we can learn from past struggles as well as cleareyed assessments of the present while charting a path forward. With research into effective communication and tactics along with case studies of those engaged in the practice of seeking change, staff from the Climate Advocacy Lab will provide us with a wealth of insights to enable each of us to become better equipped as advocates. Our featured speakers in this webinar will be KyungSun Lee, Justin Rolfe-Redding, and Maliyah Womack. Even if you cannot make our scheduled time of Wednesday, August 13th at 1 pm ET/10 am PT, still sign-up, and we will send you a recording afterward. Register now!
