Jonathan Holland, CEO

East Central District Health Department & Good Neighbor Community Health Center is excited to announce that Jonathan Holland has been appointed as the new Chief Executive Officer.

Jonathan is a mission-driven nonprofit executive and doctoral candidate with nearly a decade of senior leadership experience. Stepping in to the role of Chief Executive Officer, he brings a proven track record in strategic innovation, grant acquisition, and team development.

Previously, Jonathan served as Chief Program Officer at Children's Square U.S.A., where he led service expansions and spearheaded post-COVID recovery efforts to rebuild essential child and adolescent mental health services across Southwest Iowa. Prior to that, he served at the AIM Institute in Omaha, where he managed grant operations, development, and writing, including oversight and requisition of six federal TRIO grants.

Jonathan holds a Master's degree in Nonprofit Management and is on track to complete his Doctor of Education in Interdisciplinary Leadership at Creighton University this year. His doctoral research focuses on leadership gaps in mental and behavioral health organizations.

A dedicated husband to his wife, Rebecca, and father to their four-year-old daughter, Jonathan is passionate about building healthier communities, strengthening mental health systems, and empowering frontline professionals through values-based leadership.
