

Mary Margaret Gay

Mary Margaret Gay is a founding member of the wholly women-owned law firm Gay Jones & Kuhn PLLC and concentrates her practice on strategies to help her clients anticipate and eliminate risk. Locally, Mary Margaret works to provide personalized legal services for small business startups and entrepreneurs to help their vision and brand become a reality. She works closely with businesses to create best practices, and trains their employees, and others involved on how to put these into play.

In addition to her corporate and small business work, Mary Margaret and paralegal/advocate Rachel Roberts work in Mississippi to assist students, parents, and school districts with issues related to Title IX, bullying, implementation of independent education plans and strategies to increase communication of students, teachers, and administrators.
