

Rachel Roberts

Rachel Roberts is Litigation Coordinator and Lead Client Paralegal at Gay Jones & Kuhn. She has more than fifteen years of experience serving as a mass tort paralegal for clients involved in national litigation. As a mother of a daughter with Mosaic Down Syndrome, Rachel understands first-hand the personal and educational challenges facing both individuals with developmental disabilities as well as their parents and guardians. Rachel uses her passion for children with special needs to serve as an advocate and liaison between parents and schools ensuring children have the tools they need for their education. She knows from personal experience how complicated and daunting the process of finding educational resources and advocates for a child can be for a parent.
