

Appellate Law Section

The Appellate Law Section would like to remind our members attending the Winter Meeting in Charleston to be sure to attend our CLE program on Friday, March 10 at 7:30 a.m. Our program, "Legal Writing in the Electronic Age," will discuss how people reading legal briefs on a tablet or other electronic device read and retain information differently than those who read in the paper form. The panel will offer suggestions on how to present your briefs more effectively for this new audience of electronic readers. The panel will be moderated by Appellate Law Section Vice Chair Charlie Frazier, and panel members will include Justice John C. Few of the South Carolina Supreme Court, Mike Aylward and Bob Olson. We look forward to seeing you. Please invite your FDCC friends who may not be members of our section to join us—this program should be of broad interest to trial and appellate lawyers. Our program is modeled on one that was very popular and well-received at DRI.

The Appellate Law Section will also continue our recent tradition of organizing a dinner for interested members of our section and their families during the dine around on the evening of Tuesday, March 7. If you are interested in joining us, please email our section chair, Wystan Ackerman, at wackerman@rc.com.

We are also beginning the planning process for CLE programming at the Annual Meeting this summer in Montreaux, Switzerland. We anticipate joining with the Commercial Litigation Section for that CLE program. If you have suggestions on program topics, or interest in speaking, please email our section chair, Wystan Ackerman, at wackerman@rc.com, or Stephen Feldman (who is both the section chair of Commercial Litigation and a vice chair of the Appellate Law Section), at stephen.feldman@elliswinters.com.
