“Golf will teach you who you are with every shot. It is a game that makes you face your fears in the face of self-competition, and you are the only one held accountable.”

An empowering session on golf, diversity and women’s empowerment, hosted by the Eastern Minority Supplier Development Council, provides diverse women entrepreneurs and business leaders with an innovative approach to interacting, engaging, and building relationships with clients in the new normal. Join us for the discussion that will break down strategies and thought processes to keep you moving forward.
