The Work of Commissioners and Advisory Delegates

It is inspiring to be a part of historic decisions of the church, especially when we sense the Spirit has moved in the right direction; and even in those places and moments where there is disagreement with the actions of the Assembly, it is good to hear the different perspectives as the body seeks to gain more understanding. It is also an opportunity to hear stories of how God is moving all around the country and the world. It is inspiring and encouraging to hear good news and to join together in worship!

Time Commitment, Needed Skills & Equipment, Expectations

Being a Commissioner or YAAD is a wonderful opportunity to serve Christ's church and enrich your theological, social and spiritual life. However, it entails some hard work. There will be extensive advance preparation for the General Assembly, possibly as much as 80 hours of reading and study. You can expect to spend up to 12 hours each day (including breaks) in worship, plenary gatherings and other Assembly functions. Each day will begin with worship. Nearly all reports, agendas, dockets and other documents will primarily be available electronically. You will need the skills and electronic devices to access these materials. In addition to doing the advanced study, commissioners and the YAAD are expected to discern the will of Christ while gathered (which is different from our political representatives), to write a reflection on their General Assembly experience to be shared at an appropriate meeting of Presbytery and to speak upon request to forums, congregations, and Sessions. Expenses Transportation to the General Assembly, and room and board are reimbursed for commissioners and YAADS in accordance with General Assembly policy.

A Dependent Care Reimbursement Policy was developed for commissioners and advisory delegates to the General Assembly – beginning with the 222nd GA (2016). Follow this link for info:

Elected or not, a willingness to serve and an openness to how the Spirit might be calling is appreciated.
