Description: This sessions opens up the Summer Webinar Series with an overview of what it means to advance Health Equity and how organizations can immediately begin to take steps towards reducing health inequities by assessing their organizations cultural and linguistic competence utilizing resources such as the National CLAS standards. The session will feature a community-based health care organization highlighting example of what they have done throughout all levels of their organization to reduce health disparities in their local urban area.

Session 2: July 17, 2019 at 2:00 pm EST

Title: Steps to Advancing Health Equity and Reducing Disparities

Registration Link: <https://attendee.gototraining.com/r/4942605332805599234>

Description: This session will provide practical steps that health care organizations can begin to implement as they continue to examine their capacity to develop health equity within their communities. Attendees will be provided with instruments, including assessments tools, that they can utilize to make strategic decisions to integrate health equity in their programing, to meaningfully engage their communities, develop diverse partnerships and design and implement promising collective impact approaches to reduce health inequities. The session will feature a community-based organization who is making organizational modifications to address health equity in their local community.

Developing Strategic Alliances to Achieve Health Equity in your Community
July 31, 2019 @ 2:00 pm EST

Registration Link: <https://attendee.gototraining.com/r/8003222392557321474>

Description: Not only is fostering multi-sector strategic alliances mutually beneficial and assists organizations in furthering their goals towards achieving health equity in their communities, it also helps health care organizations understand priority issues and populations of greatest need. Session attendees will discuss how working in localized partnerships can create systems to anticipate and address needs of groups and populations experiencing inequities and social injustice and helps in developing supports strategies to secure more successful outcomes. Participants will begin to outline an action plan they can implement in their organizations with a Health Equity Task Force to support its efforts.
