How the CFP Selection Committee evaluates teams: A team's full profile, not any single metric
The CFP Selection Committee evaluates teams on a comprehensive body of work, not by any single metric. Rankings are determined by comparing the full profile of teams.

The selection committee utilizes three sources to measure a team's performance: video, data (via a customized portal) and conference input.

When teams look comparable, members apply the following four principles:

1. Strength of schedule: who a team played, not just whether it won.
2. Head-to-head results: if two teams met, that result carries additional consideration.

-more-

3. Results against common opponents: how each fared against shared opponents, without rewarding running up the score.

4. Other relevant factors: such as injuries to key players or unavailability of a coach that affected a team's season or will affect its postseason.

The CFP Selection Committee will next meet November 23-24. Its fourth set of rankings will be revealed on Tuesday, November 24 at approximately 7:30 p.m. ET live on ESPN and the ESPN app.

About the College Football Playoff
The College Football Playoff (CFP) is the competition that crowns the true national champion in college football. The format of the CFP is built on a 12-team bracket. The 12 participating schools are the conference champions from the Atlantic Coast Conference, Big Ten Conference, Big 12 Conference, Southeastern Conference and the highest-ranked team from the American, Conference USA, Mid-American Conference, Mountain West, Pac-12 Conference or Sun Belt Conference, along with the next seven highest-ranked teams. The University of Notre Dame will be included in the playoff if it is ranked among the top 12 teams in the final CFP rankings. Four CFP First-Round games are played on host campuses, followed by the CFP Quarterfinals and CFP Semifinals, which rotate annually among six bowl games – the Goodyear Cotton Bowl Classic, Vrbo Fiesta Bowl, Capital One Orange Bowl, Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl, Rose Bowl Game presented by Prudential and the Allstate Sugar Bowl. The CFP National Championship will be on Monday, January 25, 2027, at Allegiant Stadium in Las Vegas, Nevada. For additional information on the CFP, visit CollegeFootballPlayoff.com.
