

November Review

Our Edmonton Young Executives hosted a mechanical tour of Rogers Place this past month. It was a sold-out event where we toured the front and the back of the house. A huge thank you to Jason, Director, Engineering and Ice Operations who shared so many interesting facts about the building and ice. The photo to the right is taken in front of the Oilers 30,000 square foot change room! We look forward to organizing a second tour date as we had so much interest.

Meanwhile, our Calgary Young Executives planned and hosted a thermoplastics information night in November at the Trolley 5 Brew Pub. This sold-out event discussed different types of thermoplastics and how to identify them. Plus, fire stopping and limitations. We had great discussions with the City of Calgary representatives who came out to help with the Q & A section. Thank you to Dean Taylor and Randy Reid for the time you spent with us. A big thanks to Jonathan from IPEX who delivered the presentation.

Also in November, we co-hosted a course on “how to become a trusted advisor” with the Calgary Construction Association. We had 21 members register and join us for the morning with Jeff Mowatt. Participants had great feedback and were excited to take what they learned back to their teams. Thank you, Jeff, for teaching us how to influence with ease!
