

Our Shared WATERS

$500 FOR GIVING TUESDAY!

Get $500 for your non-profit

Winner picked on Giving Tuesday gets to choose a waters-related organization to receive $500

The Our Shared Waters program is launching a new crowdsourced website at RateYourWaters.Org that permits any member of the public to make water-quality observations and add them to the site. These observations, along with other information will essentially create a kind of “Yelp” for the waters of the Delaware River Basin, and do it in a way that the Basin’s lay community (about 8 million people) can understand.

Saturday, Nov. 7 to Monday, Nov. 30

Any observation logged into RateYourWaters.Org will be entered into the sweepstakes.

The winner will select an organization to receive $500 on Giving Tuesday.

Each observation represents one entry into the sweepstakes. The more observations you make, the better your chances of being selected to pick the organization to get the $500.

It's Easy.

Get Started Today.

- 1 Make an observation of the creek, brook, stream, river or other waters in the Delaware River Basin. Take Pictures!
- 2 Go to www.RateYourWaters.org and click on the “Share YOUR Observations!” or “Rate Your Waters!” buttons.
- 3 Locate your observation location on the map. Upload your photos. Rate the water, based on one-to-five stars, on clarity, odor, trash, levels and erosion. Add any comments about what you observed.

Enter your contact information. Note this is optional. But, it is necessary to be entered into the sweepstakes.

See rules at rateyourwaters.org/contest-rules/

