FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10

6:45 PM

For Friday evening's NAMI-NYS Honors Leaders in Mental Health Awareness Celebration, we have chosen three individuals who are using various forms of media to enhance the understanding of how mental health issues impact both individuals and families. The honorees are:

Ron Powers, the Pulitzer Prize winning author of Flags of Our Fathers and Mark Twain: A Life. Mr. Powers' new book No One Cares About Crazy People: The Chaos and Heartbreak of Mental Health in America details both his experience of having two sons with schizophrenia as well as America's history of failing to provide adequate mental health care.

Keith O'Neil, who was the special teams captain of the Super Bowl champion Indianapolis Colts, is the author of the upcoming book Under My Helmet: A Football Player's Lifelong Battle with Bipolar Disorder. Keith has become a good friend to NAMI-NYS serving as the Grand Marshal of the inaugural NAMIWalks NYS and working with NAMI Buffalo to raise awareness of mental health issues and the NAMI services which benefited his family.

Matt Butler, a singer/songwriter weaving personal experience with a timeless style, Butler brings honesty and openness to his classic approach to songwriting. His critically acclaimed album Reckless Son chronicles his experience with mental health and substance abuse issues and many of the songs (which Matt will be performing at the event) are achingly honest depictions of how his illness impacted members of his family.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 11

The inspiration of Friday evening and the use of media to detail the realities of living with a mental illness will be mirrored on Saturday evening with a special screening of the movie Beyond Silence. The documentary follows the efforts of Jeff Fink, Lauren Burke and Lloyd Hale to live well and break through the silence often associated with mental illness. The film, provides a glimpse into their lives and their diagnoses—which include bipolar disorder, schizophrenia, depression and anxiety—ultimately weaving together a cohesive narrative about how speaking up is key to living well with a mental health condition. Following the screening we are honored to be joined by Jeff, Lauren and Lloyd for a panel discussion.

With Intervention, Engagement & Implementation Recovery is Possible

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 11

1:00PM

Life experiences, self-advocacy and the role of family support will also be offered during Saturday's lunch session With Intervention, Engagement and Implementation Recovery is Possible. This panel discussion moderated by John Allen, the New York State Office of Mental Health's Special Advisor to the Commissioner will feature insights on recovery from people who have overcome severe and persistent mental illness. Panelists include Fred Frese, Ph.D., FAPA, FAPPA, Professor of Psychiatry, Northeast Ohio Medical University and Coordinator of the Recovery Project. Dr. Frese has been living with schizophrenia for almost a half a century and has become leading psychiatric professor and mental health advocate. One of NAMI-NYS's leading faces of recovery Hakeem Rahim, will also be participating to tell his story which has taken him from developing severe delusions caused by bi-polar disorder while at Harvard University to traveling the globe informing students about mental health, testifying before the U.S. Senate and being one of featured faces of recovery in the New York City Thrive campaign.
