The award winner is announced at the annual Veterans-in Business Conference.

"I'm deeply honored and privileged to receive this award, said Steve Synnott as Jody Keenan, State Director of the Virginia Small Business Development Center, presented with him the plaque. "I would not have achieved such success if wasn't for the talent, dedication and hard work of all our employees."

Syntelligent, founded in 2011 in Falls Church, opened a principal office in Luray and acquired HUBZone certification. Since the expansion to Luray, the company has grown from 7 employees to 78. Currently, Syntelligent employs 30 Page County residents, and an additional 48 employees across the country. Syntelligent is a certified Virginia Values Veterans company, and 38% of Syntelligent staff in 2017 are military veterans.

In addition to the personalized Small Business Veteran of the Year plaque, Steve Synnott's name has been inscribed on a separate plaque that hangs next to the Virginia metal crafter's brass urn, which is on permanent display at the Virginia War Memorial in Richmond.
