Access to Capital Advisor at SBDC CBP Hired!

The SBDC at CBP is pleased to announce that we have recruited a new part-time Access to Capital Advisor. Sarah Price has 15 years' experience in economic development practices and project management, a know how she will put to use to help small businesses increase their access to resources.

Sarah created and managed policy and economic development practices for a number of corporate clients, including Pricewaterhouse Coopers, the Home Depot, CB Richard Ellis, Ernst & Young, the City and County of Denver. She also founded a small business, SL Price Consulting, where she focused on financial and program analysis, identification of business and program needs, capital resources, strategic planning, business development. She managed and supervised projects for Fortune 100 companies as well as small businesses and the public sector and has experience with healthcare, financial services, manufacturing, real estate and consumer products, among others.

Sarah will provide targeted assistance to small businesses to help them access capital for growth. Her primary duties include building relationships with local lenders and investors, helping clients prepare loan packages and serving as a conduit to connect lenders and borrowers.

Sarah will be available to help all regional SBDC centers with their financial advising needs and looks forward to working with you.
