JOIN MEDCHI AT THE CRISP ANNUAL USER SUMMIT

Join MedChi at the CRISP Annual User Summit

I'm excited to share that the CRISP Annual User Summit will take place virtually on Tuesday, May 13, 2025. This is one of Maryland's premier health IT events, bringing together over 1,000 healthcare professionals to explore how technology is improving care coordination and patient outcomes.

The summit is structured so you can attend only the sessions that interest you—or join for the full day of engaging content. The agenda includes timely and practical discussions relevant to physicians across specialties.

Here are a few sessions, that can be especially valuable to MedChi members:

- 9:00–10:00 AM – Healthcare Industry Panel A A discussion of key trends and challenges in ambulatory care, and how health information exchange (HIE) tools like CRISP are helping us meet them.
- 12:30–1:00 PM – Advance Care Planning at CRISP An overview of CRISP's evolving work to support better management and sharing of advance care planning (ACP) documents through the HIE.
- 2:30–3:30 PM – What is Sensitive Data and How to Talk with Patients About It This session will explore the complexities of sensitive health data and offer strategies for talking with patients about their preferences for sharing information.

I encourage all Maryland physicians to attend. It's free, virtual, and designed to support our work in delivering high-quality care. Click below to register or email @kevin.phillip@crisphealth.org.
