As an MBA, Kim has the business acumen to assist clientele with the process of moving their products in the most cost effective and efficient way possible. In response to the growing need of merchants to move their stuff from the source to the fulfillment center, Kim started a new company that will be able to assist with all freight transportation needs. She has put together a team that has more than 20 years of experience in the freight transportation industry.

Mercantile Logistics & International Trade, Inc. works through the often confusing and sometimes expensive world of freight movement and customs brokerage. Our vision is to become the conduit for merchants who have a great idea, and have sourced a great product, but have no idea how to get it from point A to point B.
