

Congratulations on your retirement

MRS. SUE ASENCIO

Teacher

Sue Asencio is retiring from teaching at Saint Brigid of Kildare School after over 21 years here. Sue is currently teaching a third grade pod, but previously taught technology and computer classes to all grade levels. Prior to teaching, she worked with her husband helping him run several different businesses, which is where she got her experience and expertise in the field of technology.

Sue says “Since I was able to teach all grades technology as a Specials teacher, it was exciting to see my students grow. And I was able to build some really good relationships with so many of them over the years.”

As she retires from teaching, Sue plans to continue working but in a new career path as a financial branch office administrator, where she is excited to be able to continue to use her tech and managerial skills.
