

I started my mortgage career in the Operations Center of a local company in 2005. As my career developed, I secured a number of positions in the mortgage business from creating settlement documents, to managing a national team, to now originating loans. I have a vast understanding of mortgage programs as well as the intricacies involved in the mortgage qualifying process. I am so excited to have transitioned to Mint Home Loans where I have the opportunity to utilize the low interest rates and numerous programs at the large and even “online” mortgage companies, but still can offer my own personal service and dedication to each of my clients. My goal is always to ensure my clients obtain the best financial position while fully understanding the process as a whole.
