

Construction Pictures

Rectory: 2016-2017

A Nice Photo from the Living Room – Through the Dining Room and Into the Kitchen. The original wooden floors have been covered to prevent damage.

Our “In Residence General Contractor” – Sandy Pringle - Stands in the Guest bedroom, pensively looking at the work to be done. As you can see the interior wall that once divided this space into two rooms has been removed.

Another Shot into the guest bathroom, without flooring.
“Where is, the tub going again?”

This shot shows the kitchen after demo. It has seen better days. The good news is that the bones are strong!

Post Demo, this is the space for the half bath which is located along the hallway.

Another shot of the half bathroom as it is being opened up from the Hallway.

The Hallway Half-Bath Framed and Ready to go.

A great shot of the Master-Bedroom flowing into the Bathroom that is yet to have been framed. (This shot looks into the guest bedroom as well).

Lastly, the only room seemingly untouched, the living room. Most everything will stay the same in this room, including the beautiful arch into the dinning space.

A special THANK YOU, to Sandy Pringle and Kathy Van Orden and Kevin our General. Thank you for all that you continue to do. The project really looks amazing.