

Don't Wait

In 1966 my father, Ronald Olpp, purchased this 58 Corvette as daily transportation to Embry Riddle College for a mere $600. It was painted teal, equipped with the latest racing modifications and nicknamed the "Beach Buggy". He enjoyed weekend racing on the now famous Daytona Beach.

Upon retiring the car in 1974, he acquired original GM parts throughout the next 3 decades in preparation for completing the restoration himself during retirement. In 2001, with his health declining rapidly, I assumed responsibility of the frame-off restoration with the assistance of several knowledgeable friends under Ron's supervision.

Two years and many dollars later, I drove it back home on June 19, 2003. Five days later Ron passed away due to complications from diabetes. I now show his Corvette as a tribute to a 40 year old passion that was never fulfilled.
