Hello, Pacific Symphony Volunteers!

So many years ago, when I was an undergraduate student, I had the opportunity to study one summer at Durham University in Durham, England. As you can imagine, it was one of my life's highlights! I boarded in Durham Castle (an 11th Century castle), ate my meals in the castle's Great Hall, took ambling walks along the River Wear that traverses the small city streets and enjoyed every minute!

Last week, Bob Apfelzweig, our favorite Volunteer Challenge contributor, sent me another link to share with all of you. Since we transitioned from Winter to Springtime this past weekend, March 20th to be exact, he suggested that I share with you a piece by Jean Sibelius, Spring Song, Op. 16 (1894) as performed by the Durham University Palatine Orchestra under conductor Adam Laughton. While this performance is by an amateur orchestra, it is impressive, and it was recorded in Durham Castle's Great Hall. Unbeknownst to him, I have great affection for all things related to Durham, so enjoy!

One more thing for today! I don't know how many of you use LinkedIn, but if you do, I have a suggestion. Those of you who follow Pacific Symphony on LinkedIn may have noticed that you're being notified of posts that the Symphony is publishing on LinkedIn.

This is a new feature that allows an organization to notify others when an item is being posted. If you feel so inclined, please Like and Share these posts to your LinkedIn followers to help amplify Pacific Symphony's activities. It is such an easy way to let our community know all the things going on with the Symphony!

And, if you are following Pacific Symphony on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram, I encourage you to consider liking and sharing published posts with your followers there, as well. Every bit helps!

What a pleasure it is for me to stay connected with you each week! Until I see you again, please stay well. Stay safe. Know how much we miss you.

Warm regards,

Abby
