Hello, Pacific Symphony Volunteers!

I am excited to share this week's message with you all! Some of you may have already heard that Pacific Symphony is proud to be participating in an exciting new interactive fundraiser hosted by South Coast Plaza, the First Annual "Pavilion of Holiday Trees for the Arts!" Our holiday tree, along with creations from 35 other local arts organizations, will be showcased at South Coast Plaza in The Pavilion beginning THIS Saturday, November 14th and will run through Friday, December 4th. The Pavilion hours are Sunday from 12-7pm and Monday-Saturday from 11am-7pm.

The theme of our holiday tree is The Nutcracker in celebration of Pacific Symphony's annual Family Musical Morning Concert based on one of Peter Tchaikovsky's greatest works. Symphony volunteer extraordinaire, Rosalind Britton, is our official holiday tree designer. All of The Nutcracker characters are represented on our beautiful tree. Photos from past Nutcracker performances, along with Nutcracker musical themes play enchantingly in the background.

Since this is a fundraising opportunity for the Symphony, you can learn more by visiting our website: <https://www.pacificsymphony.org/>

To get in the mood, click here to listen to excerpts from The Nutcracker.

You are all invited and encouraged to visit this lovely event over the next few weeks while practicing safe distancing, of course! I will be viewing the holiday tree on Sunday, November 29th at 1:00pm, so please come say hello if you happen to be at South Coast Plaza that afternoon. I am including a list of local restaurants (all of which are operating under local county safety guidelines) that will also be open, in case you'd like to bring your family for a head start on the holiday season! <https://www.southcoastplaza.com/whats-open/>

Don't miss this spectacular opportunity to get in the holiday spirit!

Warmest regards,

Abby
