

Dear Parents and Guardians,

I hope you and your family have a wonderful summer! As part of our summer learning, students will complete a fun and engaging activity connected to the novel Tales of a Fourth Grade Nothing by Judy Blume.

This story follows Peter and his younger brother, Fudge, and explores family life, responsibility, and humor. To deepen their understanding, students will complete a creative project inspired by the book.

Activity Overview:

Students will:

- Choose and describe a character (Peter or Fudge)
- Write about their favorite part of the story
- Create a short imaginative story about Fudge visiting their home
- Draw a scene from their story
- Make personal connections to the text

Optional Bonus:

Students may also create a fun list of “Rules for Fudge” based on his behavior in the story.

Purpose of the Activity:

This assignment helps students:

- Strengthen reading comprehension
- Practice writing and storytelling
- Make real-life connections to literature
- Express creativity through art and writing

Due Date: August 31, 2026

Please encourage your child to take their time and enjoy this activity. The goal is to make reading fun, meaningful, and creative!

If you have any questions, feel free to reach out.

Thank you for your continued support.

Sincerely,

Ms. Rivera
