

Lezlie has been writing, performing, and leading music for most of her life. For the past decade she has been part of the local Jewish music community, helping to lead JFS' Gathering for Spiritual Peace and Wholeness, participating in the Boogie-to-Broadway choral fundraiser, and singing at various programs throughout the Kansas City metro. Lezlie has worked closely with the Beth Torah staff since shortly after joining the congregation, and has been an integral part of the Beth Torah worship team for almost ten years. She was back-up worship leader for Linda Sweeney; acted as part of the interim team under Judith Evnen; and filled several roles for Emily Tummons, including worship leader back-up, worship team member, choir director, and religious school substitute. Lezlie also had a hand in our Yom Kippur creative afternoon service, first participating as a soloist, then leading, and eventually creating a new iteration of the program. During the recent rabbinical transition period, Lezlie also served as the congregation's Program Coordinator. She is happy to be back as an official part of the Beth Torah Staff. When not working for the congregation, Lezlie writes music, books, musicals, and plays (which she sometimes directs). Her music has been produced by a local record label and published by Transcontinental Music Publications. Her plays continue to be produced both locally and nationwide. Lezlie is married to Dave Zucker, who has probably made you laugh at least once.
