

July 13th, 2025

To:

Dr. Steven Fleischman
American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists
409 12th Street SW,
Washington, DC 20024-2188

Dr. Fleischman,

Stanton Healthcare is a life-affirming nonprofit women's medical clinic with locations throughout the United States and internationally. We hold third-party accreditation through the Accreditation Association for Ambulatory Health Care (AAAHC), and we are committed to providing exceptional care that meets nationally recognized standards of excellence.

Stanton specializes in serving women facing unexpected pregnancies, offering professional medical services, practical and emotional support, wellness care, and a special outreach to refugees and marginalized communities. All our medical professionals are fully licensed and credentialed, and our Medical Director is a board-certified OB-GYN with 35 years of experience.

As part of our continuum of care, Stanton—and many other life-affirming medical clinics—offers Abortion Pill Reversal (APR). APR is a scientifically supported, evidence-based medical protocol that uses progesterone, the natural hormone that sustains pregnancy. When administered appropriately, APR has successfully helped more than 7,000 women globally carry their pregnancies to term, with no documented harm to mother or child.

The American Association of Pro-Life Obstetricians and Gynecologists (AAPLOG) publicly supports the use of APR.

We have included a video testimony from one of our own clients, Jamie, who chose APR and gave birth to a healthy son, Magnus — one story among thousands. These powerful experiences should not be dismissed or silenced.

QR code video link to Jamie's story

ACOG's public statements regarding APR are deeply troubling and, we believe, both misleading and harmful. ACOG has described APR as "unproven and unethical," claiming that "there is no scientific evidence or data to prove that medication abortion 'reversal' is effective" and warning that such procedures "could be dangerous."

These assertions are not only scientifically inaccurate; they also contribute to policies and actions that limit women's access to reproductive health options—including lawsuits in California and New York, and legislative efforts in Colorado to ban APR entirely.

This is not only troubling—it may violate federal law, which prohibits interfering with any person or organization seeking or providing reproductive health services.

In the interest of promoting medical integrity and ensuring that women have full access to all their reproductive healthcare options, we respectfully request a face-to-face meeting with ACOG leadership. We look forward to bringing a delegation of physicians, researchers, APR clients, and public health experts to engage in an open, evidence-based dialogue regarding APR and its role in women's healthcare.

Stanton eagerly awaits your response and the opportunity to work together in supporting informed choices and compassionate care for women. Contact information is listed below.

For the women we serve,

Brandi Swindell

Founder/CEO

Stanton Healthcare

Stanton Public Policy Center

Contact Information:

Atalie Snyder

Director of Community Outreach

Stanton Healthcare

Atalie@StantonHealthcare.org

208-608-3431