

ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH LISTENING SESSION

WEDNESDAY, MAY 15TH 2019

Albuquerque Convention Center
Santa Ana Room 3-5PM

PURPOSE

To help elevate Indigenous knowledge and the expertise of Tribal leaders in addressing environmental concerns, the National Indian Health Board (NIHB) is convening listening sessions to discuss environmental health concerns in Tribal Nations and innovative ways Tribes are addressing these concerns. The information shared during these sessions will inform the development of national programs and policies.

DETAILS

Date: Wednesday, May 15, 2019 from 3:00-5:00 PM

Location: Santa Ana Room, Albuquerque Convention Center

TRAVEL REIMBURSEMENT

We are able to reimburse travel expenses for up to 12 elected Tribal leaders (or their representatives) to attend this listening session. Funding will be provided first come, first serve to those who: 1) express interest and 2) believe they (or their assigned representative) possesses important information to share about the topics listed above.

QUESTIONS AND TO REQUEST TRAVEL REIMBURSEMENT

For more information about this Environmental Health Listening Session and to learn about reimbursement for elected Tribal leaders (or their representative), contact Stephen Valliere at 202-507-4082 or svalliere@nihb.org.

---

These listening sessions are hosted by the National Indian Health Board (NIHB) with support from Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

---