A Note from Mrs. Rhodes

Happy Friday! We have had a beautiful week at PCA watching our students use their gifts to glorify God. I had the opportunity to cheer on our marching band at the TAPPS State competition on Monday and to watch our theater department in their production of Frankenstein. Congratulations to our Fine Arts department on a successful week of performances.

Character Corner

Self-Control

As part of PCA's initiative to cultivate a culture of Godly character, we have already challenged students to show respect and kindness. This past week, we challenged our secondary students to practice self-control, which we define as mastery over our desires, impulses, emotions, and appetites by the power of the Holy Spirit. Self-control benefits our lives in several ways: it guards, builds, and calms us. It also points others toward God as they see His work in us. We invite you to reinforce this at home by talking with your student about where they see self-control at work in their daily life.

Dean of Secondary Students
