Continuing Our Quest for the 10th Bishop of Maine

Meet the Nominees at the Walkabouts, Jan. 18-20, 2019

The Rev. Kenneth H. Brannon

Rector, St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Sun Valley, Idaho, since 2007.

"You are honest. Your profile did a wonderful job of shining light on your strengths, as well as your challenges. An honest foundation will serve us in good times and bad. You are leaders.

You may be in the northeast corner of the nation, but you are at the center of Episcopal Church leadership. I, too, have a passion for good governance and look forward to partnering with you on behalf of this remarkable branch of the Jesus Movement."

Master of Divinity, Cum laude, Virginia Theological Seminary, 2003.

Master of Arts, Cum laude, New York University, 1997.

Bachelor of Arts, Cum laude, Wheaton College, 1990.

The Rev. Thomas James Brown

Rector, The Parish of the Epiphany, Winchester, Massachusetts, since 2009.

"There is a legacy of strong leadership, and when one is new, it's a gift to imagine building upon a foundation of health. No community or diocese is perfect, but you have a history that leads me toward you, and makes me wonder whether my gifts for loving and leading might be put to use among you... The next Bishop of Maine will be embraced by loving and wise colleagues, and that's a huge draw."

Master of Divinity, The Church Divinity School of the Pacific, Berkeley, California, 1997.

Bachelor of Science, Western Michigan University, 1988.

Bachelor of Arts, State University of New York, 1985.

Master's Degree, University of Alaska, Fairbanks, 1988.

The Rev. Rachel Taber Hamilton

Rector, Trinity Episcopal Church, Everett, Washington, since 2011.

"I know the Church as a living organism, and I am committed to honoring the Spirit of its diverse people, expanding its collective heart and love for one another, and ensuring that the people of the Church live into a sustainable and faithful future. I believe that the sum of my professional and personal experience can benefit the Diocese of Maine. The prospect of walking with your diocese fills me excitement; it would feel like coming home."

Master of Divinity, Loyola University, 1994.

Episcopal Church Studies, Christian Theological Seminary, Indianapolis, 1994-98.

Bachelor of Arts, State University of New York, 1985.

The Rev. Canon Anne Mallonee

Executive Vice President, Chief Ecclesiastical Officer, The Church Pension Group, New York City, since 2014.

"You may not see the future clearly, but you have faith that it will become clear . . . Most importantly, it is this future you envision for the diocese where every Maine Episcopalian is a faithful force for good wherever they are, that attracts me to the idea of being the 10th Bishop of Maine. I believe I have the experience and gifts to help you on that journey."

Master of Divinity, Yale University (Berkeley Divinity School at Yale), 1986.

Bachelor of Arts, University of Kansas, 1980.

The Rev. Canon Janet C. Waggoner

Canon to the Ordinary, Transition Ministry Officer and Administrative Officer, The Episcopal Diocese of Fort Worth, Texas, since 2013.

"The bishops who have served you as faithful shepherds have left a legacy of wholeness and an atmosphere of hopefulness. With experience in both healthy and broken systems in the Church, I am well prepared to lead the Diocese of Maine from strength to strength spiritually, as we work together to courageously and creatively to engage the array of practical challenges that congregations are facing in the twenty first century."

Master of Divinity, Magna cum laude; Anglican Diploma; ISM Certificate, Yale University Divinity School, 2011.

Candidate for Doctor of Ministry Degree, Brite Divinity School, Fort Worth Texas, (anticipated May, 2019).

Bachelor of Arts, Willamette University, Salem, Oregon, 1989.
