The Long Shadow is a powerful documentary about the origins and legacy of slavery. Investigative journalist Frances Causey explores her family history of slaveholding from America's founding through its insidious ties to racism in America today. We encourage you to see this insightful documentary, but don't stop there. Join our conversation following the viewing to participate in this critical work for greater understanding towards improving racial reconciliation and healing. Learn more about what you can do to change hearts and minds on the issue of race. (90 minute video) Save the date!

BACKSACK, International is a social enterprise currently partnering with Filmmaker Frances Causey on the skin disconnect which addresses the insidious issue of racism.
