

I'm Not a Bad Parent.

A Family Project documentary screening and discussion with parents impacted by the Massachusetts Department of Children & Families

The Family Project invites you to a documentary screening and panel discussion with parents impacted by DCF. The Family Project is a collaboration among students in Northeastern University's School of Journalism, Citizens for Juvenile Justice, and Northeastern University's Cradle-to-Prison Pipeline Project -- an interdisciplinary research initiative focused on dismantling the web of systems that contributes to future incarceration. The films and discussion afterward will look at how DCF disproportionately targets economically and racially marginalized communities.

Join us for a Virtual Premiere and Panel Discussion
Thursday February 3, 3:30-5pm via zoom.

Register here

Kindly reply to this email if you are in need of translation services.

