

2020-21 Specialists Assignments by School as of July 10, 2020

This information has been gathered from a Request for Public Documents as the school district has refused to share this information with staff or the union. It took 6 weeks to get 5 lists of who is at what school when.

Do the Math!

Each classroom teacher must have 30 minutes of planning each day. This is covered by specialists who have enough time in their schedules to cover 8 classes a day. Are there enough specialist personnel in the building every day to cover the number of classrooms?

Check the Equity!

Music and PE teachers serve the same students. Are they staffed at the same levels? Some schools receive Makerspace staffing. Why doesn't everyone? Some schools have one person serving all the students in their discipline. Some have 2 or even three, fragmenting and weakening the efficacy of instruction. Why isn't each school afforded the same level of opportunity for quality instruction? Are all schools with the same number of classes being allocated the same level of staffing?

Review the Health Issues!

Unnecessarily splitting teachers between buildings exponentially increases the number of people teachers and students come in contact with, unnecessarily risking the health of teachers, staff, students, families, and the broader community. How many schools-worth of people will be in your "bubble?" Will teachers be doing remote learning with students and staff they have never met?

Consider the Workload!

Each specialist is responsible for developing a relationship with, planning instruction for, delivering instruction to, assessing, grading, and communicating to the parents of each student in their caseload. They are also responsible for contributing to each school community — attending meetings, trainings, events, serving on committees, being part of the team, etc. Are the specialists in your school in a situation to do those things? For Every Student, Every Day? At each school? How many lesson plans will they have to develop and deliver each week? How many report cards? Can it be done with 50 minutes of daily planning?
