

LRC Students Learn about Life Incubating Baby Chicks

Ashley Hunt's High School Learning Resource Center class learned about taking care of new born chicks. They incubated baby chicks for 21 days, and followed the process by charting their progress. They researched how to care for them before and after they were hatched.

Terri Ryan, a parent of a student, helped the class by providing supplies and lessons throughout the process. The kids learned a lot and enjoyed every bit of it. They were so proud of the babies they had raised, they asked several other classes to come in to visit the chicks.
