Abe Rosenstein remembers his father,

To My Father

By Georgia Harkness

A giant pine, magnificent and old

Stood staunch against the sky and all around

Shed beauty, grace and power.

Within its fold birds safely reared their young.

The velvet ground beneath was gentle,

and the cooling shade gave cheer to passers by.

Its towering arms a landmark stood, erect and unafraid,

As if to say, "Fear naught from life's alarms".

It fell one day.

Where it had dauntless stood was loneliness and void.

But men who passed paid tribute – and said,

"To know this life was good,

It left its mark on me. Its work stands fast".

And so it lives. Such life no bonds can hold –

This giant pine, magnificent and old.

Esther Rabinowitz remembers her mother,

Sara Michal Cohen

Ten years after the death of my mother, I still mourn the loss of her wry, self-deprecating sense of humor; the absences of her voice soothing me through the challenging moments; the absence of her from the lives of my nieces and nephews. It is when I'm with them that I feel closest to her and most distant. We tell stories about her, but my memory often fails me. I miss you mom!

Jonathan Schwartz remembers his father,

Arthur Schwartz

He loved life and was loved by all who knew him.

Ari Davis remembers her mother,

Yehudit Davis
