

Chris Chaffin, LMFT, Doctoral Candidate

Primary Therapist

Chris holds his Master of Arts in Clinical Psychology from the Chicago School of Professional Psychology in Los Angeles, CA. He is a Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist and is currently completing his Doctor of Psychology in Marital and Family Therapy at the same institution. Chris began his career working with a diverse population at a low-income community counseling center that serves the Greater Los Angeles area. In this capacity, he worked with patients young and old experiencing identity issues, existential crises, significant life transitions, depression and anxiety, and more. He has worked therapeutically with individuals and couples, and has administered batteries of psychological assessments for individuals seeking testing for ADD, learning disorders, and mood/personality disorders. Chris is, as time permits, a voracious reader, and a lifelong lover of geeky things.
