

Morgan A. C. Blackledge LMFT

Morgan A. C. Blackledge is a licensed Marriage and Family Therapist who completed his Master of Arts in Clinical Psychology at the University of The West in Rosemead, California. here he focused his training and research in the areas of mindfulness-based psychotherapy and multicultural counseling. Morgan is currently a doctoral candidate at California Southern University where he is further pursuing his interest in the neurobiology of addiction and recovery. Morgan has extensive experience and training in eastern meditation traditions and integrates the best of these contemplative practices with secular, scientifically informed psychotherapy. In addition to his vast experience in the outpatient and residential levels of treatment, Morgan has experience as an adjunct professor of psychology at both the undergraduate and graduate levels and incorporates a strong psycho-educational component into his work with individuals, couples, families, and groups.