

Last week's family faith talk opportunity: Finish this sentence: I'd like to learn how to . . .

... play the tuba, dance the Merengue, speak French, make a pecan pie, knit a prayer shawl, make the world a better place. So why don't I? All of these things are within the realm of possibility (except maybe the Merengue) but I need to go beyond the "I'd like to learn how to ..." and actually get on with it.

On the Horizon

1. Sunday, August 11: All-ages worship at 10:00 Nursery care, Sunday School and Youth Discussion Group will resume in the autumn.
2. If you are out of town on a summer Sunday, I hope you will attend worship where you are. Give your family the chance to experience different traditions and settings. And, of course, if you're in town, our church is open for business every Sunday, rain or shine.

This week's family faith talk opportunity: At the end of a busy day, would you rather be with people or be alone?
