This free seminar series will be held from 4-5:30 via Zoom

Do you realize the importance of trauma training and want to learn more about how to implement trauma-sensitive strategies in your district, school, or classroom? In this 4-part series, Tom Hierck, coauthor of Trauma-Sensitive Instruction, will give an overview of trauma and SEL, ACES, and trauma's effect on the brain and cognition. He'll also share how to create safe classrooms where students are empowered to build resilience, cope with traumatic experiences, and achieve at high levels.

The impact of trauma on learning can be significant and long-lasting, but with the right tools in your toolbox, the effects can be lessened. Register for this seminar today so you can confidently and meaningfully support your trauma-impacted students and foster trauma-informed schools.

Tom Hierck, an educator since 1983, is a compelling presenter who infuses his message of hope with strategies culled from the real world. He understands that communities face unprecedented challenges and knows which strategies will produce the best results. His belief that "every student is a success story waiting to be told" has led him to work with teachers and administrators to create positive school cultures and build effective relationships that facilitate learning for all students. He is the author/co-author of 19 books, with two more set for publication in 2022.
