Gabbert Architects / Planners Celebrating New Changes and a Move

After 38 years, Gabbert Architects Planners of Bothell is moving to the city of Shoreline in North Seattle. The move marks nearly a 40-year history in which Marlin Gabbert, President intends to begin a new era for this highly respected architectural firm. "Gabby" as most know Marlin Gabbert, is assertively building his firm by expanding services that have been highly sought by a variety of clients. Client markets are:

- Mixed use
- Education
- Places of worship
- Healthcare
- Commercial Office
- Retail
- Workplace
- Assisted/Senior housing
- Single family homes
- Landscape architecture
- Master planning

Gabby, an energetic and seasoned Architect Planner, stated, "I am interested in building this business to sustain itself long beyond me. We want to focus on Seattle, but Snohomish and Pierce counties are growing faster in some of our markets than the Seattle area. At our new location we will be well positioned to help our clients with more room, and an easy location right off of Interstate 5."

Current projects include a redesign of an office/retail mixed use building, numerous tenant improvements, 3 church projects, a rehabilitation center, a Christian school, medical/dental offices, a subdivision for seven custom residences, and 3 senior living facilities.

Gabbert a Certified Planner, AICP, as well as an architect, developed the first Major Institution Master Plan for Seattle Pacific University's campus and the design of the Library and the Brougham Pavilion expansion. He also helped develop the early Masterplan for the 55-acre Crista Ministries campus with over 25 buildings. He has designed assisted living and skilled nursing facilities on the campus. As a Planner Gabbert has completed numerous rezones, condition use permits, variances, subdivisions and provided client advocacy on land-use issues. As an architect he helped design the Everett Mall Office Park and many Office and Industrial buildings in the Puget Sound region.

Over the years, Gabby has travelled to Mexico to help design and build facilities for under privileged, to Peru to build a clinic for three remote villages, and to Caserta, Italy to design a church.

As part of his new growth, Gabby recently brought on new professionals including Adam Kushabi, AIA as the Project Management Director and Senior Associate. Adam has worked for retail developers such as Westfield, GGP, contractors like Turner International, and global corporate giants like Disney, Aldar, Hines and Bell Canada. He is now working alongside Gabby as Director of Operations and Project Management. Adam recently was an independent Project Delivery Manager and will bring his practice's expertise from Chicago to Gabbert Architects/Planners.

Gabbert Architects has also added a seasoned Contract Administrator, Jagira Hane. His 8-member staff includes Architects, Project/Construction Managers and Administrators, Landscape Architects and Land-Use Planners.
