

THE JAY INN, LLC.

“To an open house in the evening home shall men come.”

Gilbert Chesterton (1874-1936)

The Jay Inn has always been much more than a place to stay. For over 100 years this residence, made from brick manufactured in Fitzgerald’s own Colony City, has been a home to local families and a welcomed respite for visitors from all over the world.

Sunlight with its colored hues streaming through beautiful Victorian stained-glass windows and vases is spiritually pleasing while the antique family furniture has long histories of accommodating the weary in search of old fashioned comfort.

Over these many years its great room has been the site of community events from cub scout meetings and legendary seasonal celebrations as well as political campaigns and economic development projects courting industrial prospects.

Today, as a budding AirBnB, The Jay Inn is extending this tradition of hospitality to visitors from distant lands as well as local families and businesses who desire a home away from home for guests attending reunions, local festivals or business affairs.

To accommodate the needs of these guests, we are providing 5 bedrooms with 7 beds, 3 bathrooms, clothes washer and dryer, a luxuriously warm fireplace graced by the above Chesterton quote, a library conducive to relaxed reading, a kitchen with stove, microwave oven, dishwasher and Keurig coffeemaker, two dining areas, one to suit family sized meals and another which can be transformed into a meeting room serving up to 25 people, as well as modern amenities of a computer, internet connection, and large screen for group presentations.

It is centrally located, two blocks from the center of town. Three restaurants within an easy walk. Our community library is three blocks away; our museum a similar distance. The Grand Theater is only a block away featuring an ongoing variety of current movies and shows. A number of well stocked antique stores are nearby. For those who wish to venture out further and enjoy a bit of exercise along newly marked bike paths, we will provide two bicycles upon request.

The Jay Inn is located at 309 S. Lee St. in Fitzgerald, Ga. Introductory prices through March are $60 per night for the first two guests with an additional $15 cleaning fee per visit. The price for up to 5 more guests using the upstairs bedrooms is an additional $60. The Jay Inn’s manager is Lydia Jay-Martin. She can be contacted at AirBnB’s webpage or by email at the.jay.inn@gmail.com to accommodate questions as well as bookings.
