

Center for State Health Policy

WE ARE HIRING!

Dear Colleague,

Rutgers Center for State Health Policy (CSHP) is recruiting for a talented and highly skilled Medicaid Research Scholar to join our team. CSHP has been the designated evaluator of New Jersey's Medicaid 1115 waiver demonstrations since 2012, and this scholar will have the opportunity to play a major collaborative role in the evaluation of the next round of waiver demonstrations, including interacting with leadership from NJ Medicaid.

This is an exciting opportunity for an individual with a doctoral degree from an accredited institution and a strong interest in the Medicaid program who is committed to building an outstanding research trajectory in health policy and services. This is up to a two-year position with potential future opportunities.

LEARN MORE / APPLY

We are also recruiting up to two (2) Data Analysts to join our research team. We are seeking applicants with a strong work ethic and problem-solving skills as well as who have exceptional attention to detail and scientific curiosity and take initiative and enjoy making sense of complex data.

The ideal applicant(s) will have a Master's degree in biostatistics, epidemiology, statistics, health informatics/IT, policy analysis/administration, public health, economics or a related field in addition to at least two years of data management and analysis experience in a social science, health services, or policy environment and/or training in advanced research methods. Finalists for this position will be asked to undergo a technical skills assessment.

LEARN MORE / APPLY

We encourage qualified candidates to apply for these positions and we ask that you share these opportunities with interested individuals in your networks.

If you have any questions, please contact Joseph Brecht at jbrecht@ifh.rutgers.edu. Thank you for your continued interest in the Center!

Sincerely,

Joel C. Cantor, ScD
Distinguished Professor & Director

Margaret Koller, MS
Executive Director

