

A Message from Our Director

Welcome to the Preventive Medicine Residency Program at the University of Mississippi Medical Center (UMMC) in Jackson, Mississippi. Have you ever dared to think...

I want to do more than manage diseases; I want to help people be healthy.

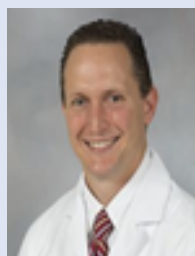

I want to impact the health of my entire community.

I want to influence state and national policies that promote health.

If so, you have the heart of a preventive medicine specialist and are not afraid to do more than just diagnose and treat disease. Experts believe that we have the means today to prevent up to 80% of all chronic diseases in the 21st century but not with our current medical model of care. To achieve this level of success, population-based preventive medicine must lead the way.

A residency in public health and general preventive medicine focuses on promoting health, preventing disease, and managing the health of communities. It requires a blend of population-based public health skills with a strong clinical skill set focusing on primary, secondary, and tertiary prevention of diseases.

Imagine practicing medicine that is focused on helping individuals live a disease-free life. Are you willing to take the "road less traveled" to make a difference for your community and for the nation? If so, we look forward to you joining us and being a part of our exciting residency.

Preventive Medicine Residency Program

Why is UMMC the right choice for a residency in Preventive Medicine?

A rigorous, diverse, and collaborative education

The UMMC Preventive Medicine Residency equips you to practice population-based preventive medicine in a wide range of settings. In addition, you'll master the skills needed to perform population-based translational research.

You'll study with the clinical, teaching, and research faculty of the UMMC School of Medicine, the John D. Bower School of Population Health, and faculty throughout UMMC and our affiliated partners. You'll benefit from rigorous clinical training, our strong connections with public health and other health care organizations, and excellent academics and didactics. Here, you'll be challenged, encouraged, and inspired.

Unique training opportunities at Mississippi's only academic medical center

In addition to University Hospital, the specialized hospitals on the Jackson campus include the only children's hospital in Mississippi, a women's and infants' hospital, and a critical care hospital. We offer the only Level 1 trauma center and the only organ transplant programs in the state. In an effort to bring essential and specialty health care services to more Mississippians, we've established satellite hospitals in Grenada and Lexington and implemented the state's most comprehensive telehealth program, with over 35 kinds of specialty care across more than 100 clinical sites.
