ANCIENT STORY

DIGITAL DISCIPLES

TODAY'S TOOLS

ANCIENT STORY

We believe the story of God's love in Jesus Christ has the power to transform lives, communities, the world. This story has come to us because generations of disciples shared what they knew with the people around them... and they told someone...who told someone... who told someone. The story is now ours to pass along. How do we tell others what we know in a world saturated with noise?

TODAY'S TOOLS

We have the opportunity to amplify the message of God's grace in powerful new ways. Social media platforms like Facebook can help us spread the Good News and build a community of disciples. If we learn to use them well, our neighbors will quickly learn how they can join us in sharing God's love in the world.

JESUS SENDS US INTO THE WORLD,

AND THE WORLD IS AT OUR FINGERTIPS.

LET'S BE FAITHFUL AND FEARLESS
DIGITAL DISCIPLES.

CONNECTED PRESBYTERIANS

A WEEKEND RETREAT

Three presbyteries in Georgia will gather October 12-13, 2018 at Columbia Theological Seminary for a joyful time of building relationships and growing in our understanding of how we can proclaim the gospel in a digital age..

HANDS ON TOOLS

Following the weekend, every church in the presbytery will have the chance to try out new social media tools to share events and activities with a broader community than ever before.

A YEAR OF SUPPORT

Participants will work together with social media guru John Fong to create engaging posts and monitor their impact. Presbyteries will collaborate and connect so we can all learn from one another.
