

Dan Ornstein is rabbi at Congregation Ohav Shalom and a writer living with his family in Albany, New York. He also teaches Judaic Studies in the middle school of the Hebrew Academy of The Capital District. Rabbi Ornstein is the author of Cain v. Abel: A Jewish Courtroom Drama (Jewish Publication Society 2020). He blogs at the Times Of Israel, contributes essays to WAMC Northeast Public Radio, and has contributed to The Scribe at The Jewish Forward. He is also a writer for the multi-volume Mesorah Matrix book series on Judaism. He and his wife, Marian Alexander, are the proud parents of Joseph, Shulamit and Vered.