

The Miracle of All Miracles

Our Hearts Yearn...

Miracles. When the word “miracles” is mentioned, most of us think of healing for the sick, an unexpected financial blessing, an answer to difficult prayer, or a person coming back to life. Our hearts yearn... to see these things and our prayers are full of pleas for our omnipotent God to show Himself strong to a world that is trying to convince itself that He does not exist. We need miracles. We need signs. We need wonders.

The truth is, we already have them all around us; we are just not seeing them.

Every creature that exists is a testament to the awesome, creative ability of a holy God that chooses to create us while knowing our faults in advance. Every prayer answered, no matter how small, proves that God cares about even the mundane things of our life. Every time God says “no” it proves His love because He knows our future and what is best for us.

When God speaks to us, we experience a moment of divine connection with the most powerful essence in the entire universe. To understand that God knows the number of hairs on our head shows He is interested in every part of us. He does not just think about His own power and glory, He actually thinks on us – flawed humans who often have little time for Him in return. He sometimes waits to answer us simply because He’s enjoying the time we are giving Him and He wants it to last.

When we look for miracles, suddenly we find that life with God itself is a miracle. Then we come to this realization that God really is good, not to just a few, but to each of us. And we find that He is working in our lives all the time, and He actually enjoys us. A perfect God, desiring to simply be with a sinful human...that is the miracle of all miracles!

Pray:

- For awareness to discern how God is working around you
- For a heart that senses how He is trying to heal your emotions, thoughts, and mind (soul)
- For eyes to see Him in the secular, the mundane, in others, and in nature
- For ears to hear Him as He speaks to you about the simple things of life
- For a yearning to change and become one with His Spirit
- For patience to wait and listen for Him
- For an intentional effort to get to know Him for who He is, and what He likes
- For a mind to remember what He has done for you already
- For faith to believe that He is watching, listening, and thinking of you right now
